2 Korean news

2.1 Two advertorials

Two Youtube advertorials for deer velvet were released on same day, 17th of Jan, in the lead-up to the Lunar New Year, each with a linked article. One of the videos, by Health Chosun, featured a doctor of food nutrition, a subsidiary of a large media company, and the other featured a Korean medicine doctor and on the media outlet called HiDoc.

Both videos recommended New Zealand as the country of origin for deer velvet. In the meantime, keywords such as ‘largest producer (so naturally have stubborn system etc.)’ appeared, which was a keyword that DINZ spread through various Korean companies or online activities.

In both cases, no specific brand was mentioned, but the SAT rating was mentioned in the advertising event linked to the ‘Health Chosun’ video, suggesting that it was a PR activity by KGC.

2.3 Deer and vehicle collision on a national road in Goesan, Chungbuk

Following an incident in Gwanggyo, Gyeonggi Province, where a feral deer attacked a person, another major accident has occurred. On 26 January at around 8 AM, seven elk deer escaped from a deer farm in Chang-an-myeon, Goesan-gun, Chungbuk, and roamed onto National Road 34. In the process, three vehicles were either damaged or scratched, and one deer was killed on the spot. Fortunately, no drivers were injured. The remaining six deer were returned to the farm by the police.

2.6 Korean traditional medicine hospital faces legal charges over illegal prescriptions

A prominent Korean traditional medicine hospital's former and current director, along with 47 staff members, have been charged with violating medical and pharmaceutical laws. The Seoul Metropolitan Government's Special Judicial Police uncovered that over seven years, the hospital issued prescriptions totalling more than 30 billion KRW for popular herbal medicines like Gongjindan, with over half attributed to staff members. Some prescriptions exceeded 1,000 days' worth of medication. Staff allegedly sold these medicines to acquaintances, generating at least 1.2 billion KRW. The hospital also reportedly used food-grade materials instead of approved medicinal herbs and fabricated patient records to facilitate unauthorized manufacturing and distribution. In one case, it was reported that deer velvet was used, but it was found that it was substituted with hard antler, which the hospital said was the expensive hard antler. Authorities are intensifying monitoring to prevent such illegal activities. * This is from the industry news for Western medicine.

2.9 Korean media exposes sheep abuse in New Zealand despite animal welfare claims

Korean news has reported on PETA's investigation revealing widespread sheep abuse on 23 New Zealand farms (2023-2024), including violent treatment during shearing and injuries without proper care. The report highlights that this abuse occurs even at farms with ZO ethical certification.

This coverage creates a significant contrast between New Zealand's international promotion of high animal welfare standards and the documented reality.

2.10 KGC's product is a premium caffeine-free energy drink for American

KGC JungKwanJang's red ginseng drink brand, Hongsamwon, surpassed 100 billion KRW in annual sales in 2024.

First launched in 1988, Hongsamwon combines red ginseng with cinnamon, jujube, ginger, and goji berries. The brand sells eight varieties in Korea and 26 overseas with strong growth.

Last year, about 54%, or 55.5 billion won, of total 103.2 billion won in sales came from overseas. Last year, sales increased significantly year-on-year in China (158%), Southeast Asia (144%), Japan (122%) and the United States (116%).

In the US, Hongsamwon is known as a 'premium caffeine-free energy drink'. Its main consumer base is men in their 30s, and it is particularly popular in the South and Middle East. It first appeared in Costco in 2015 and is currently sold in about 140 stores.

In Japan, women in their 40s often buy 'Red Ginseng One Plus,' which contains high levels of red ginseng, to manage fatigue. In Southeast Asia, the product was certified halal in 2018.

2.11 "Korea companies should use domestic deer velvet" - Industry meeting held

The Korea Livestock Cooperative Federation held a meeting with the ruling party's Agriculture and Fisheries Committee to discuss policies supporting the domestic deer farming industry. The discussion focused on concerns over the increasing use of imported deer antler and the challenges faced by local farmers. Key points included:

- Encouraging companies to prioritise domestic deer velvet over imports.
- Requesting government support to stabilise deer farming and strengthen price competitiveness.
- Addressing rising costs due to imports and advocating for measures like import restrictions or subsidies.

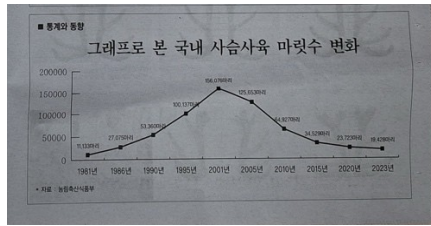

Participants emphasised the need for legal and policy changes to ensure fair competition and profitability in the domestic deer farming industry.

2.13 Detail result of NZ velvet competition has shared

The 2024 New Zealand Elk Wapiti Deer Velvet & Hard Antler Competition was held on December 10th. New Zealand is located in the Southern Hemisphere, so the deer velvet harvesting and competition happen in December after the deer velvet is collected in November. The competition involves judges evaluating the deer velvet and selecting champions in each age category. A grand champion is also selected from these winners.

New Zealand has been working on improving elk breeds since 1989, importing high-quality elk from Canada. While New Zealand temporarily halted deer velvet exports to China in November 2023 due to traditional medicine regulations, exports have resumed. They are now focusing on breeding elk to meet the high-quality standards of Chinese buyers.

The article also provides specific details about the winning deer velvet from the competition, including the elk's name, age, deer velvet weight, and sire. Headline was "Top champion Elk, 6 years old... 24.16kg deer velvet" It highlights winners in different age categories like 2-year-old, 3-year-old, 4-year-old, 5-year-old, and 6-year-old elk.

The 2024 overall champion was the 6-year-old elk named "Eureka" with 24.16kg deer velvet.

The 2023 overall champion was "Nepia" with 29.99 kg deer velvet.

2.14 NZ frozen deer velvet export to China resume

New Zealand has successfully exported frozen fresh deer velvet to China. According to DINZ (Deer Industry New Zealand), they achieved significant results in the New Zealand-China export. Rhys Griffiths, CEO of DINZ, stated that the successful resumption of frozen fresh deer velvet exports to China opens up a very large export market and leads to good results for the industry.

Since November, New Zealand has been working hard to resume exports of frozen fresh deer velvet. China is strictly enforcing the regulations on food imports.

In 2023, New Zealand's deer velvet exports to China amounted to 8.8 million USD, accounting for 11% of total exports. DINZ is looking to expand and diversify in the Chinese market.

2.15 Jeju deer antler scam? Elderly consumers misled by false Youtube video

A company allegedly misled elderly consumers by falsely advertising deer velvet as Jeju free-range products. At sales events in Incheon, elderly attendees were drawn in with cheap promotions, only to be sold high-priced elk antlers. Over three days, sales exceeded 500 million KRW.

Investigations found the company used misleading YouTube video and sourced antlers from various regions, not Jeju. The Korea Senior Welfare Foundation is taking action, calling it deceptive.

2.16 Wild deer problem on Korean islands: government plans action

The South Korean government is preparing measures to address the issue of illegally abandoned deer on islands, including Guleopdo, Incheon. The Ministry of Environment is considering designating these foreign deer species as 'harmful wild animals,' which would allow local authorities to cull them legally. Guleopdo, home to around 38 residents, has seen its population of Formosan sika deer—originally brought to the island about 20 years ago—grow to an estimated 300-400. Residents have long complained that the deer damage crops and disrupt the ecosystem.

Meanwhile, the Ministry of Agriculture plans to amend the law to penalise those who abandon deer on islands. However, environmental groups stress the need

2.17 South Korea to Expand Pesticide Regulation to Minor Livestock Species

The South Korean Ministry of Food and Drug Safety (MFDS) plans to extend the Positive List System (PLS) for pesticide residues to include minor livestock species such as ducks, deer, honey, and goats by April next year. PLS sets maximum residue limits for pesticides in food products to ensure safety. While major livestock like cattle, pigs, and chickens have been under PLS since January 2024, this expansion aims to cover additional species. The MFDS intends to issue an administrative notice by December, followed by a 60-day public consultation period and international notifications, with the goal of implementing the new regulations by April 2025. However, some industry representatives express concerns about the timeline, citing the need for more comprehensive planning and stakeholder engagement.

주가 상승한 '나사' 정액
'24년 시즌 녹용 28kg 생산

세종팜스, 지난해 수입 후 첫 인공시술

뉴질랜드를 대표하는 엘크 사슴 '나사' (Nasa, 사슴명)가 2024-2025 시즌 28kg의 녹용생산량을 기록하며 주가가 급상승하고 있다.

뉴질랜드로부터 '나사' (Nasa, 사슴명) 정액을 수입, 판매 및 시술하고 있는 세종팜스(원장 이동일)에 따르면 "작년 말 '나사' (Nasa)의 녹용생산량은 28kg을 넘어선 것으로 확인됐다"고 밝혔다.

'나사(Nasa)'는 아비안 코리안 골드의 후손으로서 2022 EWSNZ 3년생 부문 챔피언과 2022년 뉴질랜드 3년생 부문 전국 2위를 차지하며 일찌감치 주목을 받았다.

첫 뿔에서 8.5kg(녹용 생산량)과 2회 14kg, 3회 17kg, 4회 22kg을 기록했다. 특히 작년 2024-2025 시즌 6회 결과 28kg의 새로운 기록을 썼다.

이동일 원장은 "나사는 작년에 뉴질랜드로부터 580개의 정액을 수입했고, 170개 시술 후 현재 410개가 남았다"며 "이러한 소문이 양목인들 사이에서 입소문을 통해 퍼지면서 이미 200개 정도의 예약을 마친 상태이다"고 말했다. (사진제공=세종팜스)

2.20 KGC ginseng adopts dual-CEO system to boost global growth

KGC has transitioned to a dual-CEO system to enhance specialisation in domestic and international operations. At the recent shareholders' meeting, Mr. Lim Wang-seop was appointed to oversee domestic business, while Mr. An Bin will lead international ventures. This strategic move aims to strengthen the 'Jung Kwan Jang' brand and expand global market presence amid a rapidly changing business environment. Mr. Lim is recognized for his branding expertise, notably elevating KT&G's 'lil' electronic cigarette to a market-leading position. Mr. An has been instrumental in increasing overseas sales by developing country-specific products and expanding distribution channels. KGC plans to leverage this dual-leadership structure to drive innovation and solidify its position as a top-tier global health supplement company.

2.21 Severe Wildfire Hits Andong, Devastating Deer Farms

A massive wildfire that began on 22 March in Uiseong, South Korea, spread rapidly due to strong winds, causing extensive damage in nearby Andong. The fire affected multiple deer farms, burning homes, barns, and electricity supply facilities. Around 70 farmed deer were lost in the disaster. Local farmers described the destruction as overwhelming, comparing it to a bomb explosion. Firefighting efforts lasted over 10 hours, with some farmers desperately trying to contain the blaze. Community support is being encouraged to help those affected.

performance and stock price have been strong, its attempts to expand into other health products, including deer velvet, have failed. The company previously acquired two deer velvet processing firms but later sold them due to poor performance. Meanwhile, competition in China's collagen market is intensifying, with both major pharmaceutical firms and smaller players offering similar products at lower prices. As Dong-e e-Jiao struggles to diversify, its long-term growth will depend on whether it can establish new revenue streams beyond collagen.

Kwangdong Pharmaceutical visited the New Zealand Embassy in Korea on April 10 to strengthen industry cooperation.

The company's R&D Head Park Il-beom met with New Zealand Ambassador Dawn Bennet and Trade Commissioner Richard Dunsheath. The meeting centered on deer velvet, which Kwangdong has developed into functional health ingredients for prostate health and fatigue recovery—making them the first Korean company to receive regulatory approval for such ingredients. New Zealand officials praised Kwangdong's innovation and expressed hope for continued collaboration, as Korea is reportedly the only global market to develop deer velvet as an approved functional ingredient.
